

Meeting my Clan Workshop

*Telling our story means leaving our hiding place and returning to the source ...
It is the only way to find freedom*
Marc Gafni

What is the value of knowing my family tree, my ancestral history, and understanding patterns, invisible loyalties and how they condition my everyday life and future. Decades of ancestral imprints impact the way in which we interact with the world. Am I really free when I choose my profession, my partner? How can I improve my relationship with personal finances? These are some of the initial questions we'll explore in this workshop about life, family and purpose.

What we'll cover:

- * My place in the family
- * My place in the Clan
- * My purpose
- * My obstacles
- * My lessons

Details

April 13 & 14

From 9:30am-4:30pm

Location: Toronto, Canada

Cost: CAD $300 + HST

(lunch included)

Celia Viñas

celiaviñas.com.ar

Integration Biogenetics & Family Constellations
Master in Clinical Psychosomatics and Humanities

In partnership with The Open Collective
theopencollective.com

To Register: email jeronimo@theopencollective.com | Limited Vacants